

Al Lobato

The mindset that ACN encourages, coupled with the environment and the education, allows anyone with drive, desire and a positive attitude, to have unlimited success!

After 15 yrs of Corporate America, armed with an Engineering and an MBA degrees, I realized that none of my friends had the financial freedom to pursue their dreams. Most had dreams but none were living those dreams. None had the right vehicle (or perhaps the courage) to live their dreams. I remember one particular friend who always talked about having a little bar on the beach on a Caribbean island. To date he is still trapped on Corporate America, working 40 to 60 hrs a week, time going by, still talking about one day ....

While most of my friends are "hoping" to retire healthy enough and with enough money to, at least partially, pursue their dreams, I decided 4 years ago to take action!. At 37 yrs of age, I had no time to waste. I needed to find a proven vehicle that produced residual income. With no other background than a desire to learn what had worked for others, I began investing in real estate and started my ACN part-time business. I knew multiple streams of income was smart and, out of all the choices out there to start a part-time business, getting paid on essential services like telephone and cellulars, and getting in-front a a massively growing trend like digital phones and videophones made the most sense to me.

While real estate has been good for the last few years, it has been the ACN education and environment that has truly given me the mental fortitude to not give up in times of adversity. My ACN business is beginning to match my real estate investments income and is projected over the next two years, to exceed, in a month, what most of my friends in Director positions in Corporate America make in a year, AND I don't have to put up with Corporate politics or limitations! AND I can work my business around my lifestyle. I LOVE to play tennis, swim, run and play Soccer. I LOVE to be involved in the lives of my two handsome sons, Alessandro and Allayne, I LOVE to travel whenever and wherever my gorgeous wife and I choose to. I LOVE to work with, and grow with, positive, like-minded, individuals whose dreams are just as alive as mine. Compare this with any alternatives outside of ACN and you will begin to understand why ACN has attracted ultra-successful people like Mr. Donald Trump and why it is one of the fastest companies in the world!.

My only regret is to not have realized earlier that I had a say and a choice in the outcome of my life!